BRANDEIS FOR COMMISSION

CONCORD, N. H., March 9.—Louis D. Brandeis, attorney for the State of New Hampshire in the railroad rate case, believes that an immediate settlement of the matter is impossible because of the necessity of a full investigation. He made known his attitude during the hearing before the special committee of the New Hampshire Legislature, in response to a request by Attorney John W. Keller, for the railroad, for a definite answer of the position of counsel for the State.

Mr. Brandeis said that generally he believed the issue of what were proper rates should be submitted to a commission which had time and authority to make a thorough inquiry, which should include consideration of the public interest. He said that such an investigation Mr. Brandeis believed he thought the situation should be left to it.

This was tantamount to saying that the Boston & Maine should submit to the effort to secure the repeal of the statute, should submit its case to a public utility commission, which probably will be authorized by the present Legislature, and in the interim will be permitted to charge the freight rates that have been held by the New Hampshire supreme court to be unlawful.

Mr. Kelley appeared briefly at this declaration from Mr. Brandeis, and while he did not indicate that the railroad would be willing to agree to such a proposition, he said that the Boston & Maine might welcome it as the best way out of the present difficulty.

After the two men had gone over the road testimony in nearly completed, the suggestion to permit the present rates to remain until the prospective public utility commission has been organized, the suggestion as between the railroad and the legislative committee, which is to be organized, was not satisfactory one to report to the house.

UNITED STATES TROOPS ARE READY FOR INVASION OF MEXICO

Plans for New Government Said to Be the Cause of Great Military Activity.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The following statement was given out at the Mexican Embassy today:

"The Mexican government has through knowledge of the war maneuvers of the United States troops in Texas and the recent sensational newspaper reports that the United States has any designs on Mexican territory, President Diaz was fully informed, in advance, of the war maneuvers and their object."

At the Mexican embassy at Washington it was admitted today that President Diaz, who is eighty-one years old, is so ill that he probably cannot recover.

A dispatch from Mexico City today gave what purported to be an official denial of the death of Diaz. It was issued by his son, Porfirio Diaz, Jr., who said:

"My father is in excellent health, but there are reasons why he should remain in seclusion."

As there is such a strict censorship exercised over all telegraph communications from Mexico, it is not believed generally that this dispatch tells the exact situation regarding President Diaz.

Troops Landed in San Antonio.

A dispatch from San Antonio stated that troops leaving regulars of the army began to arrive there today. The Seventeenth Infantry from Fort McPherson, Ga., were the first troops to arrive.

They received a great ovation as they marched through the streets on their way to Fort San Houston. Thousands of citizens gathered along the route to see the soldiers and to get the latest news from the front.

In addition to the 20,000 regulars landed at the port of Corpus, it was learned today that nearly 10,000 militia men will be asked to take part in the military operations.

Plans of the United States for invasion of Mexico are now complete, it was declared in Washington today.

Mexico will be invaded from four points on the Texas border, according to officers of the general staff of the army, who made no secret of the real purpose of this government, extending from San Antonio, bridges will penetrate Mexico at El Paso, Eagle Pass and Laredo, while the regulars of the army from Guadalupe will be landed at Tampico and possibly at Mazatlan.

With the exception of the army that invades Mexico through El Paso, into Chihuahua, where it will be permanently stationed, where it will be permanently stationed.

Marines from Charleston Navy Yard off for the front.

headquarters staff left here last night for El Paso to be in readiness.

While Major-General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States Army, is still in Washington, it was predicted today that he would go to Texas soon and take personal charge of the troops. General Wood said himself that he would remain in Washington for the present.

Marines Off for Cuba, Too.

The United States transport Prize with 700 marines, equipped for war, sailed from Philadelphia for Guantanamo, Cuba, today. The transport Prize will leave tomorrow with 700 more marines. The men were equipped with ammunition and provisions for a two-month campaign. The Prize was the last ship to leave New York harbor.

The regiment of marines on the Prize was made up of detachments from Philadelphia, Washington, Annapolis, Brooklyn, Boston, Newport and New London. The transport Prize arrived at the League Island navy yard from New York today.

Within twelve hours of the receipt of orders for embarkation, 1,500 regular troops cleaned out of New York harbor thoroughly prepared for war. It was the largest, quickest and most businesslike mobilization of regular troops from New York since the Spanish War.

A cable from Paris today says it is reported that President Diaz has renounced General Carranza and resumed command of the Mexican federal army. Governor Molina of Yucatan was responsible for the reconciliation. He induced personal embassies of Diaz and Reyes to meet. Reyes' son has gone on to join Diaz.

Denying Diaz Illness.

A London cable reports that the Mexican government is making extraordinary efforts to contradict the reports that President Diaz is seriously ill. An official communication from Enrique Creel, Mexican minister of foreign relations, was received in London today by Senator Miguel Covarrubias, Mexican minister to England. It says:

"The mobilization of United States troops on the border has no connection with any policy regarding Mexico. The only purpose is for insurance. The rumors that President Diaz is ill are unfounded. He is perfectly well and is conducting the affairs of state as usual."

Minister Covarrubias denied that foreign property in Mexico is in jeopardy, declaring that his government was anxious to safeguard all interests of outsiders.

A dispatch from Tucson, Arizona, today said that a defeated relief force of 500 men, formerly commanded by Salome Madero and Juan Pacheco, which has been operating around San Ignacio, Mexico, is in flight today toward La Sierra, pursued by federal troops. The insurgents and the two leaders are reported to have lost 100 men in a conflict with Mexican regulars.

Sub-prefect Zaul, commanding the regulars, gave his loss as twenty.

Madero's forces reached the outskirts of the town, opening fire upon the militia. Another divided his force, cutting a flank movement and taking the rebels by surprise. The insurgents received reinforcements and held their position till darkness, when they retreated to the hills.

The battle raged all day. Madero's men being supported by machine guns and the casualties on both sides were heavy. Madero's forces reached the outskirts of the town, opening fire upon the militia. of Mexico government will crumble with him.

Diaz Recalls Enemy.

With almost $200,000,000 of American capital invested in Mexico the United States could not stand idly by while continuing factions fought over the spoils of the Diaz government. Then enters the Madero doctrine.

England, France and Germany have large interests in Mexico. It is asserted and not without good reason that influences have been made there which will attempt to protect those interests unless the internal troubles of Mexico are soon settled. This the United States will not permit. Hence the "democratic" intention to overthrow all parties in Mexico that something must be done quickly to end the internal strife.

A significant fact is the recall of General Bernardo Reyes, the chief political rival of Diaz, from his exile in Paris and the reconciliation between him and the Mexican President. Reyes, regarded by many as the ablest man in Mexico, also looked on as the natural successor to Diaz. General Diaz realized he was nearing the end of his career and he was recalled.

States that the United States intends the "maverick" as a warning to the growing Japanese influence in Mexico is another phase of the situation.

Wilson Knows Inside.

Whatever the purpose of the government may be in sending such a large force of troops to the Mexican border, the fact stands out that the action resulted from the special report made to President Taft by Ambassador Wilson, who came from Mexico for that sole purpose.

Wilson told the President the true state of affairs in the sister republic, that Diaz was on the verge of a breakdown, that revolution was rife in a majority of the provinces, and that the will of the citizens of the United States in Mexico were in jeopardy.

"War Game" Absurdities.

Official refutation of the "war game" make experienced men smile. No empire has been selected as a customary war game. The mobilization of 20,000 men to prevent four cruises getting into Galveston is farcical. The movement of the Pacific fleet on the West coast could have no possible connection with a war game 4,000 miles away. Two thousand marines would not have been rushed to transport them to Mexico if they were intended merely for a reinforcement to the four armed cruisers in Galveston, which is the alleged objective point of attack.

The whole military movement is undoubtedly, and there is official warrant for the word, "precautionary."

The foreign and naval military attaches at Washington are expected at the Mexican border, although they have not yet been invited, as is the custom when movements are inaugurated.

The war cloud spread so suddenly over the southwestern section of this country that few people have any knowledge of what the situation is in Mexico and what the mobilization of our troops on the Mexican border meant.

It is believed that President Taft has little faith about the matter that have not come to the attention of the public as yet. It is known that the Diaz government, for instance, has utterly failed to make any headway toward pacifying the insurgents who have been making trouble for several months.

The chaos that prevails in Mexico is of the greatest interest in America because in Mexico and America have millions invested in railroads, mines and in trade and all this wealth is in peril. That would be enough in itself to cause this government to take prompt steps to look out for the interests of Americans in Mexico.

Duty to Save Property.

Then according to the Monroe doctrine which is concerned variously by various Presidents, it is the duty of this country to protect European interests in Mexico, particularly those of England and Germany.

In this connection it should be recalled that the United States has no interest in Mexico.

Mitchell

The Mitchell Line

The Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company is not conducting any bargain sales this season. From the inception of its career it has carefully avoided the pitfalls of trade hysteria. The Mitchell Car was not excessively priced in the first place, therefore it has nothing to retract. It has always sold well and made good in the second place and its makers, therefore, stand before the public with a perfectly clean conscience, a good car and a most successful business.

We have nothing with which to reproach ourselves. We have no false explanations to make, no vain regrets to express. Where others have over-produced, we have heeded to the line of conservatism. Where others have spent fortunes in advertising, we have been content with modest and infrequent announcements. The Mitchell Car and the Mitchell service have done our bidding for us and sold our entire product every year. Where others, who have yielded to hysteria, are now "dickering" and viewing the world through smoked glasses, we are optimistic and banking on an assured future.

We have taken the liberty this year of increasing our prices somewhat. That is due to the additional cost we have put in construction and modern development. Moreover, we have added a top to our equipment, besides gas lamps, generator, increased tire surfaces and other items which we considered necessary to increase Mitchell efficiency. The increased cost to produce is not entirely covered by the increased price, for, as a matter of fact, we are making less profit than ever before while giving you an improved car. We are more than satisfied over the outlook as we are aware at this hour that there is a greater demand for Mitchell than we can possibly supply.

Tell us what other company in the world is producing a high-grade Six-cylinder, Seven Passenger, 130-inch wheel base touring car that sells for as little as $2,250. Show us the equal of the Mitchell Six for less than $4,000 or $5,000. Tell us what other concern is producing a high-grade four-cylinder, five passenger, 112-inch wheel base, 30 actual horse-power touring car that sells for as little as the Mitchell "TT" at $1,500. Show us a car that equals the Mitchell "T" under $2,500 or $3,000. Show us the factory that is making a high-grade four cylinder, four passenger, 30 actual horse-power touring car that sells for as little as the Mitchell "R" at $1,200. Point to the factory that makes as good a car under $2,000 or $2,500.

The Mitchell Service

The Company has stationed "Trouble Men" in various parts of the country whose sole duty is to look after Mitchell cars and make good everything that goes wrong without expense to the owner. This is a great asset to an owner.

SOCIETY HAS GREAT NIGHT AT THE AUTO SHOW

Edison and Beauty Pay Tribute to Reign of the Motor.

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Auto was still another victim at the exhibition, and so crowded were the great halls during the evening that it was impossible to get near the Governor's staff in their military dress uniforms, the uniforms making a distinct contrast with the beautiful gowns of the women.

During the day more than 25,000 people attended the exhibition, and so crowded were the great halls during the evening that it was impossible to get near the Governor's staff in their military dress uniforms, the uniforms making a distinct contrast with the beautiful gowns of the women.

The demonstrators as they pointed out the four working parts of the different models. The demonstrators and salutes themselves had a busy day. From the time of opening shortly after 10 in the morning until the signal for lights out at 10:30 in the evening, they were busy talking and pointing out the features of their cars, and explaining everything that had to do with an automobile.

Beauty and Fashion There.
News to the society of Boston has been a galaxy of beauty and fashion turned out to pay its respects to the car which attended the show. From far and near came the members of the smart set to grace the annual automobile show of Boston.

It was a night long to be remembered by automobile exhibitors. More orders for cars were placed by purchase than in two days of the show thus far.

Had Paris, London and New York and down to Meriden, Conn. there could not have been a bigger beauty show than was held last night. To the casual observer it seemed to be a city and beauty show rather than an automobile show, and the automobile was, and all homage was paid to this greatest of all present-day things.

For years the horse show has been the center of attraction for beauty and fashion. The horse show must take the place of the automobile show of 1911 is, or rather has proved itself to be the greatest of all attractions for the winter months of New England.

Years ago when automobiles were not so numerous, when everybody stopped on the street to watch one go by. It was said by skeptics that the motor vehicles would never become popular, that they would be right for a few of the hummeries of the city, but would never take the place of the horse as a means of conveyance.

Now, however, the motor vehicle has become a part of the life of the city, and the horse is being displaced by the motor vehicle.

Foss Twins Sit in Car.
When Governor Foss and his family, accompanied by President J. H. McAlman, came to the show, they were greeted by a large number of people. The Governor and his family were seated in a car, and the Governor's family was seated in a car.

The crowd about the motor trucks was larger than on any previous night. Many visitors in motor trucks, and some in motor trucks, were seen in the crowd.

Today is a wonderful day at the show. The day and evening companies will be paid to the motor truck.

Great Throng Jams Its Way Into the Big Mechanics Hall.

White Trucks Are Ideal

White Trucks are a typical expression of the best that has been developed in the science of gasoline-motor building. The combined wisdom of all designers and all manufacturers gained from years of experience is embodied in the White Trucks and Delivery Wagons. White Trucks are not the product of one man's brains, however great his genius, but a fusion of the best ideas of the best men. Tested in the crucible of performance White Trucks have responded to every demand, everywhere.

White Trucks Secure Results

White Trucks secure results because of the mechanical perfection of design, plus the superb materials that are used in their construction. White Trucks are as well built as possible, nothing having been overlooked that will make a better motor vehicle. They are built to endure. The engine is economical—consequently the cost of operation is small. The engine is simple—the simplest on the market—consequently any team-driver can drive the White Truck, and it does not disrupt your forces to use White Trucks. It is this splendidly built truck, this efficient mechanical means of cartage that we offer to every business house with the positive assurance that it will do everything asked of it, and more, at the lowest possible cost.

Opening Up Central Oregon

Central Oregon is open. The Oregon Trunk Railway is completed for 115 miles south from the Columbia River, penetrating a hitherto inaccessible region of unusual fertility and almost unlimited resources. Daily passenger and freight train service between Fallbridge (formerly Clatskanie), Washington, and Madras and Meridian, Oregon, was inaugurated March 1, 1911. Ten million acres of free homestead land (mostly in 320 acre units) is made accessible by the building of the new road, which is an affiliated line of the

WALL STREET STOCKS FIRM

NEW YORK, March 9.—Wall street is completely recovered to-day from its nervousness over the mobilization of the United States soldiers in Texas and the possibility of a diplomatic misunderstanding with Mexico. The stock market opened firm with a large number of fractional advances in standard stocks.

Even Mexican railroads showed good steadiness. National Railway of Mexico, second preferred, opened at 100; Erie, Pennsylvania, St. Paul, Northern Pacific and Atchafalaya opened unchanged. Advances in the initial quotations of the following shares were recorded:

Central U. S. steel prices were higher, and American demand was higher. The trading was mostly professional in character, but without undue pressure. Encouragement was given to the market by the reduction of the discount rate of the Bank of England. Steel was strong up to the report that the February statement showing many big orders in February would be published tomorrow. The curb market opened quiet and steady.

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, MARCH 9, 1911

$25.00 Reward for the Meanest of Cowards—and the Most Ignorant and Brutal

Such Is He That Strikes a Child, Hurting the Body and Degrading the Soul of That Child

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal-Examiner.

If a man weighing two hundred pounds, powerful and in evil temper, should be seen repeatedly striking a man one-half his weight every spectator would be horrified. Every self-respecting man would interfere, and the world would say to the bully beating a weaker man: "What a dog you are to hurt one so much smaller and weaker than yourself!"

That is what the world OUGHT to say whenever an infinitely worse and more brutal bully is guilty of beating and hurting a delicate child. Nothing is more infamous in this world than the cruelty, the brutality, the ignorance from which poor children suffer—and suffer often in the name and prostituted name of fatherhood.

The father lies to himself when he beats his child. If he is an ignorant, dull creature, with nothing in his head except a vague, brutal memory of the infamous adage about sparing the rod and spoiling the child, he beats the weak, little creature without even a thought of his responsibility.

If he happens to be a father better educated, with a little more decency and delicacy of feeling, he lies to himself just the same, saying to himself that it hurts him more than it does the child, that he is only fulfilling a parent's sacred duty.

As a matter of fact, the grown-up man or woman guilty of striking a helpless child is simply striking in anger—ALWAYS. When one human being strikes another it is to express anger or to obtain revenge, and the father beating his children is no exception, however ingeniously he may deceive himself.

In the city where men are arrested for beating or overloading horses, in the city where no man would dare to strike a grown-up human being in his employ or otherwise in his power, thousands of weak, helpless children are beaten outrageously every day.

This is an infamous crime against the rights of the children. It injures their bodies, outrages their sense of justice, and often causes intense suffering and finally death by producing diseases of the ear and brain that come usually from blows. And above all, brutal treatment breaks the children's spirit, weakens their individuality, destroys their courage and takes from them one chance of succeeding in life.

There is no greater loss living than the father that beats his own child, and would not beat a puppy dog of the same relative age. If the puppy dog made a mistake, such a man would show patience and gentleness in correcting it. For he would know and he would say that a sound beating would break the dog's spirit and make him worthless.

Yet that man's own child, put in the world by him, having only him to thank for its vices and its defects, is brutally beaten SIMPLY AND SOLELY BECAUSE THE PARENT IS AN ANGRY ANIMAL THAT WANTS REVENGE AND STRIKES IN RAGE.

Years ago the flogging of sailors was stopped because it was too brutal. Long ago the whipping of soldiers in the army was stopped because it was too brutal—and also because, very intelligently, the soldiers got the habit of punishing those that flogged them.

In every civilized part of the world, formerly, grown men and women were beaten by their masters, and now in every civilized part of the world it is recognized as a shameful disgrace that one grown person should be beaten by another.

Yet all over the world helpless children, unprotected, more tender, more sensitive to blows and cruelty than the grown people, are beaten every day.

This is an admirable reflection of the stupidity and the brutality of our so-called civilization. The weakest we always help last of all.

This newspaper hopes that such conditions will not persist, and it proposes to do what it can to diminish outrageous cruelty to children at least. In a civilization that forbids cock fights and dog fights and bull baiting and fights with padded gloves between grown men BECAUSE THOSE THINGS ARE BRUTAL, there ought to be enough public spirit and enough common sense to make it impossible for any man to dare to strike a child. Public opinion at least can be brought to bear, and shall be aroused. And perhaps something else might be done. At least, we shall try.

As a start this newspaper offers a reward of twenty-five dollars in cash to anybody that will within this month send to this office information leading to the conviction and fine or imprisonment of any person on a charge of cruelty to children.

We shall keep secret the names of people that may supply information. And we shall pay the reward as soon as the conviction is obtained. We shall make it our policy to see that the societies organized to prevent cruelty to children and the prosecuting attorney's office take action upon evidence supplied. In this way, not only individuals will be punished, but brutality will be discouraged.

Perhaps some of those that beat their children shamefully may hesitate when they know that the child's injury may give some practical neighbor a safe and easy way of earning twenty-five dollars.

We ask our readers to interest themselves in this suggestion, whether they care for the reward or not. We shall pay the reward, whenever it may be earned, with great pleasure and great satisfaction.

If you hear anywhere in your neighborhood a child crying as though it were brutally beaten, locate the particular place where this happens and write a letter addressed to the Editor of the AMERICAN, giving the facts in your possession, with your name and address, or call upon the city editor, No. 80 Summer Street.

Your name and address will not be mentioned, the person concerning whom you send the information will never know who has given it. And this newspaper will make it its business to attend to the rest as well as possible.

It is easy to tell when a child is crying because it is maltreated, and when it is crying because it is ill or in a temper. Every father and mother knows the difference well.

Don't say to yourself any longer that it is horrible that a child should be ill-treated, but that nothing can be done. If you know of such a case write to the editor of this newspaper and learn that something CAN be done.

We urge fathers and mothers to remember that even among the lowest animals very few use brutality toward their children. And among those children that have succeeded best in life, BLOOD WERE NEVER USED.

The defects of a child THE FATHER AND THE MOTHER GAVE TO THAT CHILD. If you don't like the things that your child does, what about YOUR OWN example, what about the inheritance he got FROM YOU? You might better strike yourself than strike the child, for you are to blame.

Above all, remember, if you take any pride in your children, that their one great hope in life is their unbroken spirit. One thing that will make them successful, if anything can, is COURAGE. If you break their courage, if you whip them, if you make liars and sneaks of them, what can you expect them to be in manhood!

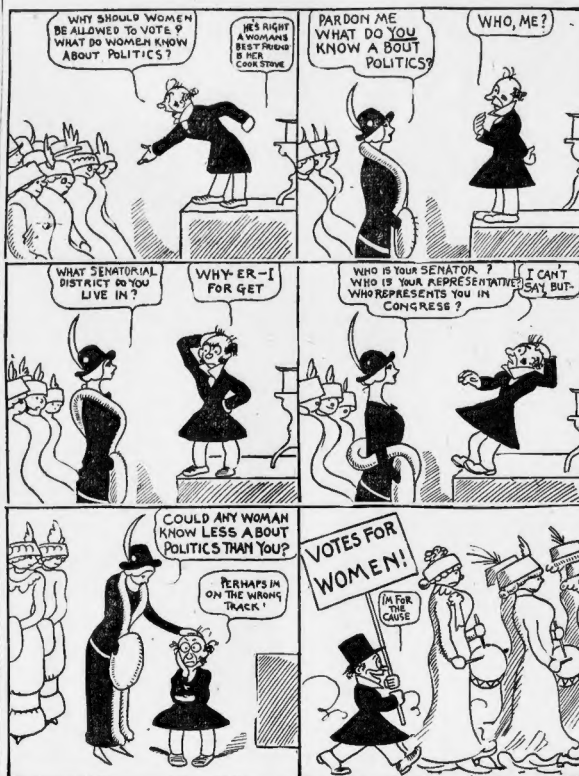

A man that strikes a child is a brute, and should be despised by everybody that knows of his cowardly act.
